Qualifications:

- (1) A master's degree or its equivalent
- (2) Readiness to submit a Ph.D. thesis (only those with a completed draft, preferably with some parts already written, a stable topic and conceptual framework, or adequate preparations for the above can be considered.)
- (3) Three letters of recommendation

Features of the Program:

- (1) It secures time for you to concentrate on completing a dissertation thesis without outside obligations.
- (2) During your stay, ARIISW supports you as a colleague.
- (3) You will submit your thesis to our University Graduate School, which will make the final judgement as to whether the thesis qualifies for the doctoral degree.
- (4) In order to grant the degree, the Examining Board for Review and Examination expects the candidate to show a level of academic ability equal to or superior to those in the regular Ph.D. course at Shukutoku University's Graduate School of Social Welfare.
